What do you like best about Nyle AI Content Generation Platform?

Firstly, I suck at writing as well as in English in general. I always struggle to create complete sentences and use the right words to describe my thoughts.

Now I have much little problems with that, since I started using Nyle AI Writing Tool.

I LOVE Product Description Generator as I can now write the product texts with less support from copywriters and do it on my own.

It's great how they recently added new features for contacting suppliers, I get things done in seconds. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What do you dislike about Nyle AI Content Generation Platform?

It took some time to learn about how to use the app and get the navigation and guides to get more understanding of what to do. But I got a quick support from the team to solve all issues

I would also add more FAQs on the pages

"So far, so good !"

What do you like best about Anyword?

There are many great features to mention but the best is the on-the-fly- blog content creator tool. I just recently began using the tool and it has been a godsend. It makes creating blog articles a breeze and, the AI LLM it utilizes is top notch. There are other tools available for the enterpid small business marketing company owner as well. At this point, I would rate Anyword as an excellent resource and indeed a vital tool for your content creation needs. If you're like me and do not have tons of time to write blog content due to other business duties then this is the tool for you. At it's current price point it cannot be beat. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What do you dislike about Anyword?

I don't have any negative remarks to make about the application thus far. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What problems is Anyword solving and how is that benefiting you?

Anyword is an excelent resource for those of us who lack the available time to sit and personally generate blog articles and other marketing content. Anyword makes it easy and simple to create fantastic blog articles in record time. The Anyword interface is quite intuitive and deasy to master for great results. Thanks Anyword !

We've saved time writing ads in particular, and the ability to create a tone of voice has significantly aided in this.

What do you dislike about Anyword?

Anyword is constantly developing, and I look forward to where it will be in just a few years. Currently, I would like to see Anyword take more creative liberty in outputs and develop more SEO-friendly features. There have been a few bugs here and there, but customer support is always readily available. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

"Easy to use tool with great capacities and learning ability"

What do you like best about Creaitor?

I am using on a daily basis to generate rough ideas for Social Media Posts and sometimes Media Releases, which I then can wordsmith further. The tool is easy to integrate in existing workflows and procedures and easily accessible/implemented. We didn't have the need to reach out to the Customer Support as of yet, as we are quite happy with the numerous features offered and their functionality to date. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What do you dislike about Creaitor?

Sharing created documents across teams needs more implementation due to confidentiality reasons within our organisation, and I haven't been able to change the grammar/spellcheck to UK English ongoingly. Might be a reason to finally reach out to customer support :) Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What problems is Creaitor solving and how is that benefiting you?

Drafting ideas and creating some "fodder" when things get busy, and lots and lots of content has to be created at once.

"Comparison for 1min AI"

What do you like best about 1min.AI?

Man, 1min.AI is like that friend who's always got your back. It takes all this crazy data junk—like, stuff that'd normally make my brain hurt—and turns it into something I can actually wrap my head around. It's quick, it's smart, and it's like it knows what I need before I even figure it out myself. I'm over here solving problems or coming up with ideas, and it's just tossing me these perfect little nuggets of info. Makes me look way smarter than I am, and I'm totally here for it. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What do you dislike about 1min.AI?

Okay, it's not all sunshine. Sometimes it's like that pal who thinks they're hilarious but picks the worst moment to crack a dumb joke. It'll throw out these wild, random leaps that leave me like, "Huh? What are we even doing here?" And yeah, most of the time it's super easy to use, but then you hit a glitch or something wonky, and I'm reminded it's not some flawless magic machine. Keeps me on my toes, I guess, but it can be a little annoying. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What problems is 1min.AI solving and how is that benefiting you?

It's a lifesaver when I'm drowning in info. Seriously, it takes all that messy crap and boils it down to the good stuff, so I'm not stuck wading through a million details. I can just focus on the fun part—thinking up ideas or planning what's next—without losing my mind. It's like it hands me a shortcut to getting stuff done, and I'm all about that..

What do you like best about 1min.AI?

One of the standout features of 1min.ai is its versatility and convenience. Instead of juggling multiple tools for different AI-powered tasks, everything is integrated into a single, easy-to-use platform. Whether you're asking one of the several available chat engines or generating AI images, 1min.ai has everything available together right there.

You can also pick up free credits daily just for logging in.

There is a great choice of image generators available and they are easily switched between each one. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What do you dislike about 1min.AI?

I am quite a light user so my 2 million credits per month will generally see me ok, but there will be times when I need to buy additional credits, which may prove expensive depending on what I am using, mid-journey doesn't come cheap.

Also when you are new to this the interface isn't that intuitive, a few more tutorials would not go amiss Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

"Outil complet et polyvalent"

What do you like best about 1min.AI?

Cet outil permet de tester une large gamme de fonctionnalités liées à l'intelligence artificielle : génération et modification d'images, création de vidéos, rédaction de textes, et bien plus encore. L'interface est simple d'utilisation et offre la possibilité d'être configurée en français, rendant l'expérience accessible à tous.

L'outil est particulièrement riche en fonctionnalités, avec de nombreuses options à explorer. Je découvre tous les jours de nouvelles fonctionnalités.

En résumé, cet outil se positionne comme un choix de premier plan pour ceux qui cherchent à explorer et à exploiter pleinement les capacités de l'IA dans divers domaines créatifs. Avec une interface intuitive et une gamme impressionnante de fonctionnalités, il offre une expérience enrichissante Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What do you dislike about 1min.AI?

Le petit point négatif concerne le système de crédits, qui peut s'épuiser rapidement, notamment lors de la création d'images et de vidéos. Cela limite l'usage intensif sans recharge supplémentaire. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

"Amazing but Costly"

What do you like best about 1min.AI?

I love the variety of AI's, tools and Studio's. It's like your one stop shop for everything AI and not just some lame AI either. These are some of the top brands in the world of AI. You can do anything with 1min.AI. It's relatively easy to use, and in multi AI, you can customize which AI models you want to get responses from. It was easy to setup. You can have one team or many, and you can even assign the amount of credits each team is permitted to use. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What do you dislike about 1min.AI?

The cost, even with 4 million credits, I am burning through them quick! I am using AI to update my resume. I had 4,247,300 credit when I started and am now at 3,075,115. I did write the one resume but changed it 3 times to align it to various jobs I applied for. There is the option to purchase additional credits which is also expensive. Other than the cost, there is literally no downsides to this. I found their customer support lacking. They aren't very responsive, despite the fact that their system uses a chatbot which a human operator is supposed to be able to take control and service their uses directly. I am still waiting on an answer to a question I had. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What do you like best about 1min.AI?

I get free credits everyday that I log into my account. I have a wide variety of different AI tools at my hands. I have used everything from image creators to full body essay's. I

What do you dislike about 1min.AI?

The lack of clear restrictions when it comes to prompts for the different LLM's that the site uses. You may ask for something on one of the AIO tools and it will tell you that it doesn't meet guidelines, then you try the very next LLM and you get a produced result. Wish there was a clear and defined set of rules I could have in front of me, so I don't waste my time writing a long and detailed prompt only to have it rejected due to unclear guidelines. "Great way to try out new models"

What do you like best about 1min.AI?

I not only learned about models I hadn't used or heard of before, I got to try them out and evaluate what they were like without having to sign up for them. The centralized dashboard UI for the website is also very straightforward and utilitarian. The feature that adds 15,000 credits per day is really great, but I've also noticed that some of the features are really expensive to use. Most of the more advanced items would likely cost money to keep using. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What do you dislike about 1min.AI?

It's really frustrating when doing certain things, like using the Image Extender, for example, to have used a bunch of credits for something that isn't appropriate or correctly done. There's no feature to dispute the results of the content generated; you just lose your credits. It would be much better if there was a way to undo the task prior to saving the content, or something similar that would allow a user to revise their prompt to get a better result. Because otherwise you spend 60,000 credits on a thing you can't use. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

"Worth checking out"

What do you like best about 1min.AI?

I signed up for a lifetime membership which gives me a small amount of credits to use every month. 1min.AI aggregates so many different AI use cases and models into one place so it's easy to do anything from generate an image from text, speech from text, even a video (which was the main reason I signed up). While it's likely that someone very experienced with AI could find cheaper/more efficient ways to solve these problems individually (i.e. running some of the text generation directly in ChatGPT rather than burn credits here), this app has the convenience of having all these different tools in a single place, and is an excellent starting point to explore the many different use cases for AI. I think of it like a playground--test things out, see what works, and if you want to get serious about a particular use case, maybe explore further a more cost effective way to do it at scale. But in either case, this is a great place to dip your feet in AI for a fun and interesting experience at a low price point. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What do you dislike about 1min.AI?

The main downsides I found are that 1) you burn through the credit allocation very quickly, especially depending on which model you use, 2) sometimes the prompts fail (but it doesn't charge in such an event, which is good), and 3) it can be hard to preview or properly set expectations on what you'll get on the other side. For example, I did a text to video prompt which took more than 50% of my monthly allocation for a 5 second video. The video didn't turn out like what I expected but was still absolutely bizarre and hilarious. Burning through the credits makes a bit of the repeat experimentation slower since I have to put a lot of thought into my prompt since I can't iterate as quickly due to burn rate, but I will say the fact that I'm so eager to continue prompting and creating in this tool is a testament to how fun and entertaining it is to begin with. What do you like best about 1min.AI?

My Take on 1min.AI: A Game-Changer for Creatives

I've been using 1min.AI for a few weeks now, and it's quickly become my go-to tool for everything creative. Imagine having a Swiss Army knife of AI features—all tucked into one sleek platform. Whether I'm drafting blog posts, whipping up social media graphics, or even converting podcasts into tidy transcripts, this tool handles it all without breaking a sweat. The interface is super intuitive—like it was designed by someone who actually gets how messy real workflows can be. No steep learning curve here.

What really sold me, though, is how human the outputs feel. The AI doesn't just spit out robotic text; it's got nuance, personality, and even a dash of creativity. I've used other tools that make content feel stiff, but 1min.AI's algorithms nail that natural flow, almost like it's reading my mind. And the voiceovers? They sound like they're recorded by a real person in a studio—not a glitchy robot.

I also love the no-strings-attached pricing . Pay-as-you-go means I'm not stuck with a subscription I don't need. Plus, no hidden fees? Refreshing. The history logs are a lifesaver, too—I can revisit old projects or tweak outputs without starting from scratch.

Sure, there are minor limits on token counts for heavy users, but honestly, it's a small trade-off for the value you get. Regular updates, like adding Midjourney support, show the team's committed to keeping things fresh.

If you're a creative pro or just someone tired of juggling a dozen apps, 1min.AI is worth every penny. It's not just a tool—it's a creative partner that grows with you. Five stars from me! Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

"A powerful tool with a credit model that can be improved"

What do you like best about 1min.AI?

I particularly appreciate the ease of use of 1min.AI and the quality of the generated images, which are often very successful and detailed. The interface is intuitive and allows for quickly testing different styles and prompts. It is a considerable time saver for content creators and graphic design professionals. Additionally, the implementation requires no technical skills, making it accessible to a wide audience. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What do you dislike about 1min.AI?

The credit system can be a hindrance to experimentation, especially when trying to refine a creation by testing multiple variations. It would be interesting to have a more flexible management of credits, or an offer allowing for the generation of more images without constraint. Additionally, a history of creations would facilitate access to previous versions without having to use new credits. Review collected by and hosted on G2.com.

What problems is Easy-Peasy.AI solving and how is that benefiting you?

All my emails are written and checked on easy peasy, mostly when it comes to official outside-the-company emails. I write the basic idea and let easy peasy do the rest. save me a lot of time and make me look better when communicating with customers.
